What this site is

Prometheus Works is a private workshop of things built by hand and in code: tools, simulations, models, study material and physical builds. Nothing is public. Until you sign in and are approved, the site only shows a welcome page.

You are...	You see
Not signed in	The welcome page with the sign-in buttons.
Signed in, not approved yet	The welcome page with an Ask for access form.
An approved member	Your projects: everything shared with members, plus any restricted projects shared with you.

Getting in

1 Go to prometheusworks.co.uk and sign in

Pick one: Sign in with Google, Sign in with Microsoft (Outlook, Hotmail or school), or, with neither, Create a passkey (type your name and email, then confirm with your fingerprint, face or device PIN). If the owner set you up with a password, you'll have been sent a link to choose it; after that, use Sign in with email and password. With Google or Microsoft the site gets only your name and email address, never your password. A password set here is stored only in scrambled form.

Use the same way in every time.

Your Google account, your Microsoft account, each passkey and a password account count as different people. Once you're in, you can click "Add passkey" for quicker sign-in on that account.

2 Ask for access

If you're new, the welcome page shows who you're signed in as and a short form. Add your name, a line about who you are and how long you need access (a day, a week, a month, until a date, or no end), then click Ask for access. If your access has an end date, the welcome page comes back when it's over and you can ask for more time.

"Your request is waiting for approval."

The owner gets an email and decides what you can see. You don't get an email when you're approved. Just come back to the site later: once approved, your projects are there instead of the welcome page.

3 Once you're approved

prometheusworks.co.uk shows your projects. You stay signed in on that browser for up to 30 days. Click Sign out (bottom of the side panel) when you're done on a shared or school computer.

Finding your way around

On your projects page	What it does
Side panel (on a phone, the ☰ button)	Projects are filed like a drawing register: cabinets (e.g. Study, 10 to 19) hold drawers (e.g. 11 Physics), and every project has a number like 12.03 (drawer 12, third project). Click a cabinet or drawer to see just that; Everything shows a row per project. The arrows fold a cabinet or the tags away. Your name and account links are at the bottom.
Continue where you left off	The last few projects you opened on this device, including which page you were on.
Search (or press /)	Finds projects by title, description, tags or number (e.g. 12.03).
By file number / Newest / A to Z	Changes the order.
Register / Sheets	A ruled list grouped by drawer, or a "sheet" per project with a picture and title block. The site remembers your choice.
Sun / moon button	Switches light and dark mode.
On your phone	Safari: Share, Add to Home Screen. It gets the flame icon and opens like an app.
Restricted badge	A project only some members can see. Please don't pass it on.

Opening a project

Click any project. It opens full screen inside the site. At the top:

- Back arrow (or the Esc key, or your browser's back button) returns to your projects.
- Copy link copies a link straight to that project. It only works for other members who can open it.
- Open in new tab opens the project on its own, which is better for big 3D projects or on a phone.
- Pages: some projects are a set of documents, renders or files, such as a run of papers or a build with its pictures. Flip with the arrows (or your arrow keys) or pick from the list beside it. A Files page, where there is one, lets you download things like STL files.

Some documents have no download or new-tab button: the owner has asked that they stay on the site. Please don't screenshot or share them.

"This project is restricted"

If someone sends you a link to a project that hasn't been shared with you, you'll see this page with an Ask for access form for that one project.

Common questions

Do I need a Google account?

No. Google, Microsoft, a passkey or an email and password all work. With a passkey or password, the owner can't check your email automatically, so say who you are in your request.

I forgot my password

Email support@prometheusworks.co.uk and you'll be sent a link to choose a new one. Your access stays the same. If you remember it and just want a new one, use Change password in the side panel on the projects page.

Which device does my passkey work on?

The one you made it on, plus any device that syncs your passkeys (iCloud Keychain, Google Password Manager). On a new device, sign in another way or make a new passkey and ask again.

I signed in but I'm still on the welcome page.

Either the owner hasn't approved you yet, your access has ended, or you're signed in a different way from the one that was approved. The welcome page shows who you're signed in as and why. Click Use a different account and sign in the usual way, or ask again.

I asked for access. How do I know if I've been approved?

Go back to prometheusworks.co.uk. If you see projects instead of the welcome page, you're in.

I've asked but want to add more detail.

Email support@prometheusworks.co.uk. You can have up to five requests waiting at once.

Can I share the site or a project with a friend?

Please ask the owner first. A link only works for people who have been approved; anyone else just sees the welcome page and can ask for access there.

A project looks broken or is very slow.

Try Open in new tab, or a laptop instead of a phone. Some projects are heavy 3D builds. The Help page (prometheusworks.co.uk/help.html) has more fixes.

Does the site track me?

No tracking or advertising cookies. The site only remembers your theme, layout and recently opened projects in your own browser, plus a sign-in cookie. The full privacy page is at prometheusworks.co.uk/privacy.html.

How do I get my details removed?

Email support@prometheusworks.co.uk and ask. Your name, email, requests and any saved progress are deleted.

> Still stuck? Check the Help page at prometheusworks.co.uk/help.html, or email support@prometheusworks.co.uk with a screenshot of what you're seeing.
